o f G i a n t s

We visited the land of the giants. Climbed the Shepherd's Steps to the clifftop, took a seat on the basalt throne and looked out over the stepping stones that disappear into the sea.

Legend has it that here, Scottish giant Benandonner threw down the gauntlet and laid claim to the island of Ireland.

This enraged Irish giant Finn MacCool who responded by throwing boulders off the Antrim coast into the sea. But his anger soon turned to inspiration when he realised the boulders could create a causeway; a bridge across the water to the Isle of Staffa where he could challenge his enemy to a fight.

Ethical Policy

At 2786, we take great strides to ensure our ethical performance is just as good as the performance of our outdoor jackets.

We go out of our way to avoid using any harmful, banned or restricted chemicals that could be unsafe. Products are manufactured using certified fabrics to the OEKO-TEX STANDARD 100, so you can rest assured that our clothing has been tested by independent experts and contains nothing on the restricted substance list of Registration, Evaluation, Authorisation and Restriction of Chemicals (REACH) regulations or the ECHA SVHC Candidate List. 2786 outdoor jackets also comply with the EU general product safety directive regulations as no harmful substances, dyes or colourants are used during our manufacturing processes.

We also have a great reputation when it comes to social compliance. We adhere to the labour principles set out in the AMFORI BSCI Code of Conduct. We only select factories that achieve high standards and respect workers' rights, including offering decent working hours. Maintaining these standards ensures all our outdoor clothing has been produced in a fair, honest and legal way, without exploiting the people who make it.
